PROJECT

In addition to the Customer Segmentation Analysis and Sales Forecasting Model, I have undertaken diverse data analysis projects spanning various domains. For instance, I have delved into sports analytics, where I analysed player performance metrics and team strategies to derive insights for performance improvement and strategic decision-making. Furthermore, I ventured into HR analytics, where I explored employee attributes, engagement levels, and retention patterns to identify factors contributing to organizational success and employee satisfaction. Each project involved data extraction using SQL, data manipulation and analysis with Python libraries like Pandas and NumPy, and visualization of insights using tools like Microsoft Power BI and Tableau. These projects collectively showcase my proficiency in data analysis, statistical modelling, and visualization techniques across multiple domains, preparing me for versatile roles in the data analytics field.

EDUCATION

- Vistula University - Bachelor of Computer Engineering
- William Carey University, Shillong - Bachelor of Science (B.Sc) (Mathematics, physics and chemistry.

Independently completed data analysis projects showcasing proficiency in SQL, Python, and statistical analysis.

Demonstrated ability to extract insights from datasets and create meaningful visualizations.
